Remember one little thing

Don't Plant Too Deep

Most varieties are small seeded, and these are sown on the surface of the bed, after which the seed should be pressed gently into the loose soil and only very lightly covered by again levelling the surface. Many of the failures with flower seeds are caused by covering the seeds too deep, so care must be exercised in this regard as the very fine seeds of many varieties cannot possibly germinate if covered too heavily.

How to Grow Good "Glads"

GLADIOLI prefer a sunny position. Sandy loam is best, but any good garden soil will do fine. Sow 6 to 8 inches apart and 4 to 6 inches apart in the rows. Plant any time after May 1st. Frequent cultivation retains moisture. In exposed windy locations plants should be staked. After heavy frosts in autumn dig bulbs and store until next season.
